PERSONAL STATEMENT

Early one Friday morning my father and I hurried across the teacher parking lot to sign in at the school's front office. It was bring your son or daughter to work day and I was going with my father to his job at a local high school. My father is a special education teacher and teaches students with severe mental and physical disabilities. As we reached his classroom, I noticed a nurse in the corner of the room at a small desk, a medical table for changing students' under garments, wheelchairs, a sink with large syringes for tube feeding, a first aid station and many assistive technology devices across the classroom for writing and communicating. I was a junior in high school and this classroom was not what I was used to nor what I expected. Six out of the seven students were present. A typical day starts with good mornings, then welfare checks, i.e. checking students for cleanliness, whether they need changing, etc., and then with feeding breakfast. One student is tube-fed and all other students require assistance with feeding. After breakfast, my father began a lesson categorizing the days of the week. As I sat back and watched my father teach these severely challenged students, I realized that not only is he an educator, but also a health care provider to children with severely debilitating special needs. I felt so blessed to have had a normal upbringing, be relatively healthy, and not have to endure the physical and mental challenges that these students face every day. It was then that I realized I had a strong desire to help people, not educationally like my father, but medically.

A few years later, I was involved in an automobile accident and was given doctor's orders to have physical therapy. I met and became very close with my physical therapist. She would often explain the scope of her duties and this began the process of me considering physical therapy as a profession I would enjoy. I was in physical therapy three different occasions and each time, I learned something new from my physical therapist. I was treated with e-stim, astym, and dry needling along with exercises and I was able to firsthand experience the different treatments utilized during physical therapy. Additionally, I experienced the positive impact these treatments had as I eventually started to heal. After my own physical therapy, I researched the field further and discovered that over the next ten years, there is a prediction for high growth in the demand for physical therapists. With the hands-on treatment and the progressiveness of being able to treat patients and see them improve reinforced this as a career choice for me.

I now work as a physical therapy technician. This has enabled me to see firsthand all facets of what it is like working in the physical therapy field. I now know that physical therapists provide services that help restore function, improve mobility, relieve pain, and prevent or limit permanent physical disabilities in patients with injury or disease. They also help to restore, maintain, and promote overall fitness and health.

Working as a physical therapy technician has been life changing. From seeing patients with minor knee pain to patients who are unable to walk due to a stroke, I have seen how truly impactful a physical therapist is and the difference he or she can make to each patient. I have learned that patients really appreciate how attentive, caring, and supportive the therapists are and this is something I will take with me. Having this experience as a technician has taught me there is something new to learn every day in this profession. There will always be difficulties and setbacks with patients, but there will also be wonderful patient relationships to be made and moments that can change both you and your patients' lives forever. Being compassionate, caring, having an open mind and be willing to evolve and adapt to ever changing situations will allow me to succeed as a physical therapist and build positive relationships with patients. I have learned that having the opportunity to build relationships with patients is important because it can make or break the effectiveness of treatments. Just as my dad works hard every day to make the lives better for his students, I hope one day I can do the same for my patients.

Physical therapy was not a profession I often thought about while growing up. I was unsure of what I wanted my career to be, however, I knew I desired to be in the medical field. I realized this several years ago the day I had the opportunity to work alongside my father who is a special education teacher. Seeing the hardships his students faced and how they were unable to help themselves, made me want to find a way to help them. A couple years later, I had to have physical therapy treatment due to a back injury as a result of a car accident. During my treatments I discovered the many positive healing aspects of physical therapy and I realized I wanted to pursue a career as a physical therapist.

After my treatment ended, I was offered a job at an outpatient clinic. The physical therapist I work for graduated from the University of St. Augustine. It never ceases to amaze me how knowledgeable, organized, and successful she is. For the six years she has been a physical therapist, she has treated hundreds of patients and has established herself as the clinical director. I firmly believe what she has accomplished is due to her time at St. Augustine. I have learned many things from her and appreciate how she handles herself as a reputable therapist. She is the one who encouraged me to apply to the physical therapy program offered through the University of St. Augustine.

The University of St. Augustine is a prestigious school with a well-known physical therapy program. With consistently high employment rates, graduation rates, and National Physical Therapy Exam pass rates across each campus, it would be an incredible opportunity to be accepted into the program. I know it would be a challenging and very competitive environment, however, with my hard work and dedication I know I could excel.

To Whom It May Concern,

I highly recommend Camille Switzer for your physical therapy program. Camille has worked as my physical therapy technician for approximately the last 6 months, and she has been a joy to work with. Camille is a very hard worker and truly an asset to our team. She gets along with both patients and staff. Camille is honest, reliable, and she always keeps a positive attitude within the clinic. She caught on to the job duties as a tech very easily and performs them appropriately. Camille demonstrates good time management and can even handle assisting up to 3 different therapists at a time. She was also able to be trained in front office duties so that she can assist there as well. Camille is organized, plans ahead, and can multitask well. She is passionate about physical therapy and the overall well-being of our patients. She constantly seeks new learning opportunities when appropriate and always takes initiative to help with any needs of the clinic.

As a knowledgeable, reliable, and dedicated employee as well as an all-around great person, I strongly believe Camille would be a beneficial addition to your school program. She will be a great physical therapist one day!

Please feel free to contact me with any additional questions.

Sincerely,

RECOMMENDATION CONCERNING ADMISSION

To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to recommend Camille Switzer for acceptance to your program. Camille has been a physical therapy tech with us for a little over 6 months – giving me enough time to really get to know her and see how she works in this type of setting. Overall, she has amazed me. As this was her first time in this particular setting, I was expecting it to take a little while to learn the ropes. She exceeded expectations, making it her goal to make our lives as physical therapists easier. She is absolutely wonderful with the patients and makes it a point to always speak and have a smile on her face. She has so much empathy for others (which could be seen as both a negative and a positive), however she uses it as her drive to be better, making the patient as comfortable as possible at all times. It truly is a breath of fresh air to be around her. She is wonderful with time management and multitasking, so much that she often brings to our attention items on our schedule that may have been missed. She is capable of seeing >3 patients at a time and is always a step ahead in terms of what their next exercise may be, thus allowing her to perform several tasks at one time. She has also quickly assumed responsibility of placing our supply orders, assisting with front desk duties, as well as several other miscellaneous jobs. Although Camille has exceeded all expectations, she is constantly striving to be better. She makes it a point to ask questions and clarify when clarification is needed. Overall, she is a joy to work with and someone that I think very highly of. She will make a great physical therapist and a great asset to your program.

Thanks,

Courtney Boyle, PT, DPT

Dear Program Director,

I am delighted to recommend Ms. Camille Switzer for admission into your physical therapy program. I had the pleasure of being Camille's instructor from January to May of 2017 in Beginning Jogging, an activity course, and from August to December of 2017 in KIN 4520 (The Psychosocial Aspects of Physical Activity), a senior-level lecture course. Over the course of that year, Camille demonstrated a work ethic and dedication to high performance that will undoubtedly benefit your program. I truly enjoyed serving as Camille's instructor.

Camille is a very driven young woman. When I met Camille in jogging class, she told me how determined she was to train to complete the final 5K below her goal time. She worked hard throughout the semester and always came to class eager to train. Although it was not a typical lecture course, Camille took her performance very seriously. In the middle of the semester, Camille developed a knee injury that prevented her from running. Rather than giving up on her goal, she worked with her doctor to figure out what she could do to get back to running as soon as possible. I found her determination admirable, and I was very proud of her accomplishments.

In KIN 4520, I was able to witness just how determined and focused Camille is. She never hesitated to ask for clarification when it was needed and actively participated in class discussions. Camille demonstrated great communication skills and the ability to work well with others during in-class activities. Her final research paper focused on the psychological and sociological aspects of rehabilitation from a sports injury. The paper was well written, clear, and organized, and showed Camille's close attention to detail, as well as her interest in helping others through the injury rehabilitation process. Her paper clearly demonstrated her ability to consume, synthesize, and apply scientific literature to real-world settings, and I truly enjoyed reading it.

It was a pleasure to get to know Camille as a person outside of our class time, as well. I often saw Camille on campus studying in the hallways of our building, speaking with her friends, or enjoying watching Mike the Tiger, our live tiger mascot, in his habitat on campus. Camille was always excited to have a conversation, and I enjoyed hearing about the wonderful things she had going on in her life. I believe that her personality will benefit those who are going through rehabilitation, and she will undoubtedly have excellent bedside manner.

Camille's dedication to her interests, genuine caring for the wellbeing of others, and personable nature make her a strong candidate for your program, and I am very happy to recommend her to you. I know that Camille has great potential as a physical therapist, and I am sure that anyone who has the pleasure of working with her in the future will see this, as well. Please feel free to contact me if I can be of any assistance.

Sincerely,
